

The Chalice of You

I Am Isis, Your Divine Voice, bringing you beautiful news. You might wonder why I keep on calling you the Brave Ones, but I have to say that with every step we walk next to you, our honor and love for each of you expands, and this is the honor and love you are starting to feel for you. You are undergoing very intense times, as energies come in to the planet to serve the commands of human consciousness. Yet, you do not need to suffer the intensity if you can remain aware of what is actually going on. Instead of resisting change, you can flow with it.

You are the Brave Ones, the endless seekers of the Holy Grail, and I am here to tell you that you have finally found it. I, the Divine Feminine, am represented by the Chalice of Life, the womb that receives the seeds of creation and gives birth to your deepest heart desires. As you have given yourselves permission to receive me within you, you are becoming your own Holy Grail.

Hold no doubt in this regard. You have opened your entire Body of Consciousness to receiving the wholeness of you, despite the pain, both physical and emotional, the fears, the anxiety of not knowing exactly how these experiences will unfold for you. You have opened yourselves willingly in a sheer act of trust and generosity for you. Can you recognize your courage?

So now comes the time of allowing the Chalice of You to be filled with the sweet wine of celebration. This wine is the distilled product of your experiences and your wisdom. And this is happening now and we are delivering this message today to bring this into your awareness.

And there is also an additional significance that we want to address. This moment of heartfelt celebration also facilitates the final release of so many memories of pain.

Love does not have to hurt, my dears. In the winding path of your experiences up to this moment, you have loved in spite of the mental conditioning and hypnosis you have been subject to. You have loved knowing that love could hurt you again, believing, as you were had to believe, that you were hurting others, whether intentionally or unintentionally. The more love, the more pain sometimes. But nothing has ever stopped you from loving, even when your own feelings would seem distorted or the object of your love was apparently or actually unattainable.

Such pain, dear ones, has kept on manifesting repeatedly in your lives because the more love you experienced, the more you became aware of the original pain you first felt after leaving Home. It is the original pain of separation. Love allowed you to remember your deepest longing.

But humans have continued to love despite such pain. And this love is finally rendering its cherished fruits. This wine I referred to in the metaphor of the Chalice which you are allowing yourself to be filled with is the result of the Love of You, precious, and the most valuable thing any being could ever gift itself with.

The energies of pain lie deeply within your cellular memory, and these memories are surfacing now as you allow your own body to reconnect with all that you are. So just be aware of this so that you can love and accept any of the symptoms of such intense clearing.

Will you allow yourselves to be loved and cherished this way? Before answering, take a deep breath. Will you allow your Masculine, Adam, to become the provider of all that you may need or desire? Will you allow the Sacred Reunion of Adam and Isis to transform your reality? You, dear humans, hold the final key to it.

And that key is saying YES: YES to you, YES to your Divinity, YES to your human condition with every breath you take. You have made the choice and you are manifesting it. YES. You have given up everything for this and now it is here for you. Close your eyes for a moment. Feel it.

It will be your choice of experience whether you want to stop and release your painful memories one by one or all together. There is no right or wrong here. The path of love, of the Grand Love that you are, has been accompanied by the pain of separation, but it does not have to continue to be that way.

Feel the pain you have inflicted upon you by believing that you have hurt others, Even if you have come to realize that you cannot really hurt others, their pain still hurts you. The pain of humanity —present and past— still haunts you. But again stop for a moment. What are you truly running away from? What if running away from pain was actually moving you towards the realization of the true love of you? Pain has been one of the prompters of the Reunion and the realization that You Are Love, a love that no one will ever be able to take away from you; a love that you do not have to protect or hide anymore; a love that will bring you to allow the radiation of a safe space that you will express everywhere you go and whomever you are with. You will not need to force, manipulate, demand or fight for anything since Your Provider will give it to you and you will receive it in your daily divine human experience. YES.

And thus, your experience will be filled with the magic of you. Your human reality will become the expression of who you truly are. People in your life will honor you as you honor yourself. You will be able and willing to share love because you accept yourself and others as they are at that moment. No one will seem threatening because in your safe space, all the energies will be allowed to come in and out, in the transparent and crystalline nature of you where nothing that vibrates lower than you can linger around.

For now, be aware of anything that may appear threatening or painful, because these feelings are very likely to show up at this time. Remember no processing is necessary; energies and aspects are coming home to you. The crystalline energies you are surrounded by right now magnify the experience of such memories as if they were real, but as you remain aware that they are nothing but shadows, you will be able to cross through. Such crystalline energies are also providing the template for the transmutation and healing of them all.

This is why you are feeling such intensity. Be aware of your safe space and compassion, so that you can love yourself even if you “trip” or “fall”. You are doing nothing wrong. It is energies serving the true desire of your consciousness of realizing that you have come to you.

Take the time to stop, breathe and be with yourself, so that you can start to recognize every time you feel the wine pouring into the shining surface of the Chalice of you, sparkling and dancing with the joy of the realization of You.

Keep this picture in your imagination, for it is simple and clear. The Chalice has to do nothing other than receive the wine. Will You?

With deep honoring and love,

I Am Isis