

Doing

I Am Isis, Your Divine Voice. It is amazing and truly touching (we are feeling more and more into your physical) to see and witness your blossoming.

In spite of what you sometimes feel or rather think of yourselves, you are truly moving at awesome speed into the final stages in leaving the old and fully stepping into the new. You are jugglers playing with mastery, even beyond your awareness sometimes, in unprecedented circumstances. You have stepped into non-dual dimensions in your body, which is no longer bound to anything other than your consciousness. Yet, your everyday life goes by in a world that is still governed by the rules of duality. Or so it seems.

Even I, Isis, am being transformed in this conundrum.

So you believe you are still acting within the old rules of time and space. And as long as you believe so, so will be your experience. So I invite you now to stop and breathe... Why should you still be choosing to do that? Because what your eyes see and what your senses perceive appear to be what they used to be. Is it really?

I can truthfully say that it is not so at all! Things could actually transform and change right before your eyes if you only allowed you to loosen and unclasp your consciousness about them. And yet, this is quite appropriate still, because you want to be here and you want Earth to continue.

You are not quite clear at human level of what choosing life on Earth actually means. At times, and we can say it is normal as a passing point, you still hold a grip on wanting to make your current living better. But at this point, you can create, by allowing the potentials in, a wholly different human existence. Breathe into this. Wanting just better may mean that you are not willing to truly let go of what you have created up to now. I know that the experience of losing things in your life is not a pleasant one for your human self, but you no longer need to lose; if you let go, your creations come back to serve you.

Every part of this reality is an illusion sustained by consciousness. And consciousness is now flying high and above of where it was even just a few months ago.

Why should the causes and effects that apparently govern reality still operate for you, the sovereign universe that you are? Just because you still accept them as such.

So, relax your mind right now. It gets anxious as if it were failing to catch something it should be doing or understanding. That is the way of the old mind, but it is evolving with you. Command her to relax, it will eventually get it. Breathe.

Play in sovereignty, which is your new playground. Choose to change things without expectations, because expectations only reflect what you used to know. Expectations are reflections from the past into the future.

And at this point, action —doing things—, even those things that you feel you'd really like to do, is still strongly held within duality. And we see you, heartfully undertaking new businesses, and then, you get trapped again into the rules of what you think you should do to carry on with your creative undertaking. And then, you fall back into the illusion of time and space.

Bring your doings into your safe and sacred space. Be aware of what may be pure mental stuff, because then you may start doing what you think that you should be doing: step one, step two, and so on. And then, you get so stressed and tired that you quit.

Physical actions, and the guiding thoughts, are still tied into the magnetic of the old energy. That's why you feel it is so hard and difficult to change, like trying to swim in a marsh. But this is where your awareness of new energy comes in. Use it; it is more and more available to you. Consciously breathe in new energy into every step that you take.

Don't get trapped, break free, literally, with every step you take, even if you know you are taking a mental step. Before you take it, stop and consciously instill new energy into it. It doesn't matter if such step involves a procedure set by the government or any rules in "external" reality. Remember, it is one breath at a time, one step at a time, when you allow new energy into the old. And then, you will see it, change right before your eyes! It doesn't matter either if it is only for you or if it may affect such reality for others. Whatever happens you are creating it for You!

For example, go and negotiate your loans in the full presence of You and breathe new energy into the meeting. Go and visit the stores of what you would like to buy. It may feel swampy at first, but will you dare to go through the experience? And you may also realize that you no longer want what you wanted to have or experience and that is ok too. But now you know and you can move on.

So make a choice (of an experience rather than of an outcome) and take the first step into what feels dense and fixed (which seems to have prevented you from reaching your desires) with this expanded awareness and watch it happen for you.

Too simple? Yes, it may just require some patience (out of time and space too). Why shouldn't it be so for you?

You are dearly loved,

I Am Isis